Work in Store for the Chief.

The news of a very mean and unprincipled act comes to hand. Three bicycles owned by gentlemen about four miles out in the country were left outside of the Methodist church one night recently, when some person punctured the tires of the machines, and the owners were obliged to walk home. It seems as if a policeman is needed at every corner. The other day, also, an elderly lady came to our office feeling very badly over the fact that the flowers she had placed on the grave of her departed son in St. Mark's cemetery, had been stolen. Truly, there is some work in store for the Chief of Police. Such proceedings as these must not be tolerated.

Thank you to Donald Combe and Ann Lindsay, St. Mark's Archives, for providing these short informational pieces on a weekly basis for E-News.
